As we celebrate the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, we must never forget that the Cross is part of the central mystery of our faith and the highest expression of God’s love for all of us. It is not merely a symbol, but a living reality that defines who we are. On the Cross, Jesus Christ, the Son of God, offered Himself in perfect obedience to the Father, taking upon Himself the weight of our sins so that we might be reconciled to God. The Cross is where justice and mercy meet, where death is conquered by love, and where suffering is transformed into redemptive power.

In our daily lives, the Cross calls us to a radical way of living — one that embraces sacrifice, humility, and trust in God. Christ does not invite us to a comfortable discipleship; He says, “If anyone would come after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross daily, and follow me” (Luke 9:23). This means that every trial, every act of forgiveness, every suffering united to His Cross becomes a share in His redeeming mission. Through the sacraments, especially the Holy Eucharist, we are drawn into the Paschal Mystery, so that the Cross is not distant from us but present in our very bodies and souls, shaping us into Christ’s likeness.

Let us therefore not flee from the Cross, but cling to it as the source of our strength and hope. It is through the Cross that heaven is opened, and through it that our lives gain eternal significance. In a world that fears pain and exalts self-indulgence, we must be witnesses to the paradox of the Cross — that in dying, we find life; in giving, we receive; in suffering, we are purified. Let the Cross be ever before us, not as a burden, but as the glorious sign of victory. May we, like Mary at the foot of the Cross, remain faithful in love and stand firm in the hope.
