Love for those in need is not simply an option for the Christian—it is a defining mark of true discipleship. God said to St. Catherine of Siena, "I ask you to love me with the same love with which I love you. You cannot do this to me, because I loved you without being loved. Any love you have for me is a love of debt, not of grace, since you are obliged to do so, while I love you with a love of grace, not of debt." Reflecting on these words, we see that God's love for us is freely given, unearned, and entirely gratuitous. This means that no matter how lovingly we strive to serve God, we only give Him what justice demands, not the boundless, self-originated gift He offers us.

Precisely because we are unable to love God in this perfect, selfless way, He calls us to love our neighbor. God explains to St. Catherine: "That is why I have put your neighbor at your side: so that you can do to him what you cannot do to me, that is, love him without taking into account merit and without expecting any benefit from it. And I consider as done to me what you do to him." This is the heart of Christian charity: to help, support, and show mercy to others not because of what they deserve or what we might gain, but purely for the sake of God, as a reflection of His own limitless love for us.

When love for the needy is lived in this spirit, it becomes a true act of worship. Every act of compassion becomes a gift offered directly to God Himself. As St. Catherine's revelation reminds us, Christ sees our love for our neighbor as love for Him. Let us then open our hearts to the poor, the lonely, and the suffering—giving with no thought of reward or recognition. In so doing, we fulfill not only the commandment of love, but the very longing of God's own Heart, who desires to be loved in His children and seen in the faces of all who need our help.

GOSPEL

Today Jesus told a story about a selfish rich man who ignored God and refused to share with other people. All his money did him no good when he died. He didn't go to heaven. He had his whole life to learn about God, and he could have helped many people with his money. Instead, he forgot about God. He wasted his riches and bought a lot of nice things for himself. Learn from the rich man. Live for God, not for money.

PRAYER

Dear God, help me to share the things you have given me. I love you more than money.
